

What happens after my participation ends?

It can take a long time between the end of your study participation and the results becoming available. This infographic explains what happens 'behind-the-scenes' after your participation ends to help you understand why trial results often take a long time to report

